KINDERGARTEN RECONSIDERS.
Miss Vail Decides to Remain at Nat-schaug School—Other School Interests.

Miss Grace E. Vail, whose resignation as kindergarten at the Natschaug street school, was presented to the town school committee Wednesday night, has reconsidered her intention of leaving, and will probably be found in the same place next year. One of the difficulties confronting the committee is thus very satisfactorily solved.

In regard to the other changes at the school, necessitated by the decision of the committee to have an ungraded room there, to take care of the overflow of backward pupils, and those of ill health or absence has placed them behind their classes, it is practically decided that Miss Inez Brown will take charge of this new room, which from experience and ability, she is ably qualified to do. Miss Helen Larkin will teach in the seventh grade, and Miss Adelaide Hallon, now principal of a school in Poquonock, will probably be called to teach in the seventh grade.

WEPT AT REVELATIONS.
Everett P. Adams, sued for Divorce, Bogged Wife Not to Have Intimate Secrets Revealed—Briefs Submitted in Ashford Case.

The divorce case of Adams vs.
Adams occupied the attention of the superior court Friday until 3:15 in the afternoon. Judge Howard J. Curtis was on the bench.
Almost all of the time was taken up with the testimony of Everett Payson Adams, the defendant. Mr. Adams seemed much affected during his testimony, and broke down on one occasion and wept, saying he did not want to tell the things which should be kept between him and himself, and that he had begged her not to tell the things which would result in making a public scandal of his life.
Mr. Adams said he had worked hard all his life as a farmer, stock raiser and carpenter, and also sold older at fairs, and that today he was worth about two thousand dollars. At one time he and his wife ran the Orchard house at Ashford, and he said they did a good business and Mrs. Adams was the money. About a year ago he said he gave her $450 outright.

Denied Unfaithfulness Charges.
He denied the charges brought by his wife and the plaintiff's witnesses, saying he had never been untrue to her. He said she had never accused him of injuring her health by his treatment of her. As to drinking, he said he "could not recall ever being off my feet or losing my head." He admitted taking a drink of older now and then, but said it was sometimes a long time between drinks.

Thought Wife Took Dope.
His explanation of the trouble between the couple was that at first his wife did not think he kept himself clean enough, and then she complained of living in Ashford, because she had a girl growing up and the boys were then, but said it was sometimes a long time between drinks.
